PINCHOT PRESENTS FIRST BUDGET FOR STATE

RUHR INDUSTRIAL COLLAPSE COMPLETE

Feeling Runs High
Around Essen on Eve
of Trial of Mine Oper-

Sentenced.

MORE MINES QUIT

Germany Creates Havoc in Ruhr, Notifies
Allies the Disturbance
Hinders Debt Payment

Essen, Jan. 23.—One hundred thousand Ruhr miners are now on strike against French occupation mine owners announced today.

German industrial leaders again issued a proclamation calling upon workers to refuse to deliver coal to the invaders at the hour when Fritz Thyssen and six other coal owners were to go on trial.

More Westphalian miners joined the strikers today. Six Stinnes mines in the vicinity of Essen closed down because the French refused to hear workers on behalf of the six industrial leaders, who, it is reported, are to be sentenced to three months in jail.

The citizens of Essen were in an angry mood today, following the march of a French patrol to the heart of the city, pushing all pedestrians off the sidewalk.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—Germany notified the Allies today that it is doubtful if it will be able to pay any more reparations for the present owing to the economic chaos resulting from French occupation of the Ruhr.

FEDERAL OFFICERS VISIT HOLLYWOOD IN DOPE CRUSADE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes and Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the anti-narcotic division arrived here today for an investigation in Hollywood.

The officials will have a conference with Jesse L. Lasky for whom Wally Reid was working and then planned to visit a dozen other studios for conferences with a view of securing the fullest co-operation in stamping out the evil.

The drive to purge Hollywood of the drug traffic has already been launched. Half a dozen drug peddlers have already been arrested and along the Mexican border narcotics valued at more than $100,000 have been seized during the last ten days.

Ford's Nose Smashed In Run-In With Big FIVE TON TRUCK

A Henry Ford belonging to F. T. Bell, in charge of the repairs to the Clearfield Trust building, got its "bill" badly dented shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Bell was driving up Market street from the garage following close behind the big International truck of Moore Bros. the plasterers. As the truck neared the postoffice some fellow quickly backed his car out into the right-of-way.

The driver of the truck was forced to clamp his emergency on to avoid smashing into the car ahead. His truck responded quickly to the brake, but the close following Ford was not so lucky and banged right into the rear end of the truck. Before ranting into the truck the Henry was possessed of the usual prominent Ford nose but when the truck was eased off the little fellow it's snout was of the decidedly retreating variety, necessitating help to get back to the garage. Bell escaped personal injury but his feelings were a total loss. The truck was uninjured.

FIVE THOUSAND FRUIT EXHIBITS AT HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—With more than five thousand exhibits of fruit, vegetables and other farm products already in Harrisburg, with more than a hundred thousand square feet of exposition space available and with a score of meeting places engaged for the week, everything is in readiness for the Seventy Annual State Farm Products Show here, today.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture estimate that more than 50,000 persons will attend the show during the week. The big event on today's program is the mass meeting of all agriculturists organizations, this evening. Governor Gifford Pinchot will be the principal speaker and will outline his policies to the agriculturists.

Another feature of this evening's program will be a radio address to be delivered by Henry C. Wallace United States Secretary of Agriculture. The address will be delivered at the government wireless station at Arlington and will be received in the assembly hall here.

During the week a dozen agricultural organizations will hold their annual business meetings and will hear discussions led by the foremost men in all kinds of agriculture and who have been selected from all parts of the country.

Judges of the hundreds of heads of livestock entered in competition in the show, as well as the fruit and vegetables, will be started today but it will be several days until the list of prize winners will be ready for publication.

County farm agents from sixty-five of the sixty-seven counties of the state have arranged to attend the fair show and each agent will be accompanied by a large delegation of farmers from his immediate section.

Appears In Person Before The House And Senate To Explain The Need Of A New Business Method

Budget He Presents
Calls For $89,446,115
Which is $28,000,000
Less Than Expenses

READS A MESSAGE

Harrisburg, Jan. 23.—Governor Pinchot today presented to the General Assembly the first budget in the history of Pennsylvania.

Appearing in person before the assembled House and Senate, the Governor read a message, explaining the budget, which if put in force by the Legislature, will cut the expenditures of the State during the next two years by over 25 per cent.

The budget provides for an expenditure of $89,446,115 or $28,000,000 less than that provided by the 1921 appropriation.

In explaining the budget, Pinchot told the Legislature that the state will be faced June 1 by a net liability of $29,600,000.

His Message.

"I have the honor to present to you the first State Budget in the history of Pennsylvania. That I am able to do so is due first of all to the arduous, unselfish, and most effective work of Clyde L. King and his associates of the Citizens' Committee on the Finances of Pennsylvania. It is due also to the invaluable cooperation of Auditor General Lewis and the numerous other public servants (especially the accountants) who have rendered their generous assistance. I commend the report of the Committee, which summarizes their joint labors, to your special attention.

This Budget is based on the assumption that the expenditures of the Commonwealth must be met with its income; that Pennsylvania must be made able and kept able to pay all bills on the nail as they fall due (which cannot be done at present); and that the good name of the State requires us to return to that position at the earliest possible moment.

There is now an appropriation liability of $85,697,000 for appropriations made by legislatures previous to 1921. Our unpaid debt on November 30, 1922, had reached a net total, after all appropriations not actually expended, encumbered, or inevitably necessary had been cut off, of $23,351,000. Add to this deficits recently reported of not less than $7,600,000 in accrued or accrued beyond the amounts appropriated, and subtract from it $1,000,000, the outside limit of current appropriations made but that may not be required, and we reach the unwelcome and disquieting conclusion that, on June 1st of this year, the Commonwealth will be facing a total appropriation liability, over and above income, of about $29,651,000. In other words, we have failed to live within our means by that large sum—we owe that much and must postpone payment. The above total deficit of $7,600,000 I estimate can be reduced by $945,000. This leaves a net liability of $29,006,000.

The Legislature of 1921 appropriated in round numbers $127,654,000, which Governor Sproul reduced by veto to $118,154,000. Of this amount, about $92,654,000 had not been paid out and was therefore a liability on November 30, 1922. Add to this $5,697,000 of liabilities from previous appropriation periods still unpaid, and also the minimum deficit of the present appropriation period of $6,655,000 and we have a total liability as of June 1st next of $65,006,000. It is believed that the total of appropriations uncalled for will be about $1,000,000. This leaves a net total appropriation liability of $64,006,000.

To meet this amount, the Auditor General estimates that there will be a cash income to the same date of about $35,000,000. Subtracting the

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—Physical and practical examination for drivers of motor vehicles is urged by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce as a means of lessening automobile accidents in Pennsylvania.

Ten recommendations for the strengthening of the Motor Vehicle Act have been approved by the Chamber and an effort will be made to incorporate the recommendations into a bill for the consideration of the State Legislature.

1. Giving the State Highway Department power to regulate licenses.
2. Requiring physical and practical examination of all applicants for drivers' licenses.
3. Eliminating necessity for sounding horns at all intersections, but making control of car at these points mandatory.
4. Making one classification for drivers.
5. A title provision to simplify issuance of licenses, owing to frequent change of ownership of cars.
6. Giving municipalities power to make ordinances providing fines or imprisonment for violation of traffic regulations.
7. Establishment in all cities of traffic regulations.
8. No change in speed limit law.
9. Establishing in all cities of traffic courts.
10. Requiring owners to maintain cars in proper and safe order.

money we shall have to meet our obligations from the obligations themselves—taking what we can pay from what we shall owe—we reach again the $29,006,000, the excess of expenditures over income. This is a debt which must be paid from future revenue.

The Auditor-General estimates the revenue from taxation in the general fund for the next two years at $117,000,000. Subtracting the $29,006,000 of unpaid bills, we find that $82,994,000 will, upon his estimate, be available for the expenses of the coming two years.

The Auditor-General is unable, he tells me, to submit detailed estimates of income for the coming appropriations period, but only a general estimate. In the absence of such detailed estimates, I am justified in accepting the opinion of the Committee on the Finances of Pennsylvania that, with the return of good times during the next two years, $3,000,000 more than the estimate of the Auditor-General, or a total revenue of $115,000,000.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—The draft of the proposed Game Code combining in compact form the legislation governing the protection and taking of game which will be submitted to the Legislature this morning is now completed.

Officers of the draft have been sent to the officers of the Game Commission and to many prominent sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations for examination and possible suggestions.

Present legislation is incorporated in 17 separate acts and 25 amending acts, comprising 149 sections.

The new code has only 120 sections under 12 main articles. It was drawn up by the State Legislative Reference Bureau working in conjunction with the Game Commission.

The Code adheres closely to the old law with the exception of a few important changes. The principal change included in the Code are:

- Increasing the non-residence license fee to $15.00; changing the license period so that licenses will cover the trapping season; licensing fur dealers; protecting all buck deer until they have two or more points to one antler; protection of woodchucks during breeding season; increasing limit on bears for individuals and hunting parties; permitting closing counties to game of any kind; extending law relative to killing large game by mistake to all game; prohibiting sale of all game except rabbits killed in another state and the skins of raccoons and bears; establishing one special game fund in the state treasury instead of two.

PITTSBURGH POLICE LIEUTENANT KILLED IN MAKING ARREST

Pittsburg, Jan. 22.—Police Lieutenant Schmotzer was shot and fatally wounded early today while attempting to arrest a man in a house on the South Side. Schmotzer died in the St. Joseph's hospital later.

Policeman Martin Milowski, who ran to Schmotzer's assistance, was shot in the hand. Policeman Milowski arrested Michael Glorek. He was wanted on a charge of having taken a revolver from a saloon. He will be charged with the murder of Schmotzer.

Miss Catherine Elzweiler is spending a week with friends in Philadelphia.

Former Police Chief Hitt to Be Arrested On Forgery Charges

P. A. Hitt, former Chief of Police of Clearfield, who appears to have embarked on a career of "frenzied finance" after being fired off the force here early last year, has at last got himself into serious difficulty, the Moshannon National Bank of Philipsburg having made information against him this morning charging him with forging the names of his wife and father-in-law W. H. Pelton, Morrisdale, to a note for $260 which was given by Hitt to the bank as security for a loan of that amount.

Following Hitt's dismissal from the police force here he went to Philipsburg on a short visit and is alleged to have issued checks to the amount of more than $100 without funds in the bank to meet the checks when they were presented for payment. He was able to get the matter fixed up at that time.

Since then wherever he went, and he's been several places, he represented himself to be the chief of police of Clearfield and on the strength of that title or reputation is said to have succeeded in getting divers and sundry checks cashed. At any rate during the past several months numerous letters have been received here for the chief of police, asking Hitt to make good for checks he had floated and which were returned marked "no funds."

A trip to Lock Haven netted him $30, of which the Sheriff of Clinton county contributed $10 and a drug company the other $20 in cashing one of the checks. From Tyrone came a similar story, while shortly before Christmas Sheriff Dukeman of Bellefonte came to Philipsburg and had Hitt make good a "phony" $10 check he had got hold of.

Just after Christmas a Johnstown constable arrested Hitt at Philipsburg for issuing fraudulent checks and he was taken to Ebensburg jail, according to the story told by the constable on a recent trip to Clearfield. Managing to get out of the law's clutches some way or other, Hitt got back to Philipsburg about the first of the year and negotiated

JAILED ON SERIOUS CHARGE PREFERRED BY GIRL'S PARENTS

Oliver Reed, of Lawrence township, aged about 45 years, was lodged in jail Monday on a serious charge, the information upon which he was arrested having been made before Justice Chorpennig by Burton Winor of the Second Ward.

The allegation made at the hearing was that Reed attempted to criminally assault the 13-year-old daughter of the prosecutor. The alleged assault occurred on a Saturday evening a couple of weeks ago. The little girl had been sent down to the Ashbaugh store on Ogden avenue. Reed was in the store when the child came in, but left before she had made her purchases. He was waiting outside for her when she left the store and stepping up to her said he would walk home with her. The little girl told him to go on about his business that she was afraid of him. Reed followed the child and when she reached the alley on Spruce street, near the residence of Dr. Cowdick, he is alleged to have seized her and attempted to drag her into the alley.

The frightened child's screams attracted the attention of John Hancock and other men going to their homes and they ran to her rescue. When he saw he men running to the child's assistance Reed made his getaway. Chief of Police McClinton immediately began an investigation which resulted in Reed's arrest and he is now in jail awaiting trial.

Reed recently served a term in the penitentiary for a similar offense and is not believed to be "all there" mentally.

CHANGE IN FUNERAL NOTICE

Owing to difficult schedule, condition of roads and other difficulties, a change has been made in the funeral arrangements for Waring McDowell. It is now planned that the body will be taken from the morning train at Woodland and carried to Dales church, where services will be held instead of at Clearfield as at first arranged.

Musical Club Hears Operatic Selections Of Exceptional Merit

The fourth program of the Musical Club was given at Thayer's Auditorium on Monday evening, January 22nd. It was a program of operatic music and was one of the finest the club has ever given. Every number was excellently rendered, every performer was well-trained and perfectly at ease in his part.

An orchestra of nine pieces gave two selections, under the direction of Mr. Oscar W. Schaefer. They are all trained musicians, they played in perfect unison and the effect was very inspiring to the audience.

The rest of the numbers were vocal. Mr. Meredith's solo, "Prologue from Pagliacci," was excellently rendered—a selection well adapted to bring out the wealth and beauty of his voice. The piano accompaniment which is very difficult was played with great skill and expression by Mrs. J. M. Gallaher. The duet "Home to Our Mountains" from "Il Trovatore" by Mrs. M. S. Bowne and Mr. D. Way Powell was made especially effective by the gypsy costumes and the lighting. Their voices blended perfectly and they sang with great

His wife died in 1915, at the age of 80 years, and since that time he has spent most of his time with his daughter here. For several years he was unable to go about much owing to his legs being paralyzed, but he was much interested in present methods of travel, principally the automobile and the airplane, as compared with the old canal boat.

To Mr. and Mrs. Lingle nine children were born, eight of whom are living at various places throughout the state. He is survived also by 27 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

He was a member of the Disciple church. The funeral will be conducted from the home of his daughter on Allegheny street, Wednesday afternoon. Interment will be made at Blanchard.

So! Yields Abundant Crops.

In some of the island of the West Indies there are areas of cane which have yielded fair crops for twenty years without replanting. In Cuba the most progressive planters usually allow no more than five or six "retentions" crops, the fields being then replanted. The soil is so rich that rotation of crops has apparently not been found necessary.

Word From Headquarters.

"Where, where and how will the war end?" "I don't know," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "However, the young ladies and gents of the senior class of the village academy, several of whom are over sixteen years of age and have been outside of the county a time or two, are going to settle the entire question in a debate tonight. Understand, too, that while they are at it they will fix things so there will never be any more wars. So I shall be able to inform you in full tomorrow morning."

the loan with the Moshannon National Bank for which the forged note was given as security. The note was entered on record in Prothonotary Ralston's office here the day following its acceptance by the bank.

The alleged forgery was discovered by the bank people this morning and an information was at once made against Hitt, charging him with forging the names of his wife and father-in-law. A warrant was issued for his arrest and placed in the hands of a constable who went to Woodland, where it is said Hitt went to work on Monday, for the purpose of arresting him.

The late G. L. Reed, one of the forward-looking, substantial pioneer citizens of Clearfield, who had much to do with the development of this community, had a vision of the future which was remarkable in view of present day accomplishments. In searching through some of his father's old papers the other day A. B. Reed ran across the following "composition," written by his father away back in 1844. The observation of three quarters of a century ago are interesting and we secured the ancient document for publication. It is worth a perusal:—

The Progress of the Arts.

In no age of the world perhaps have the arts advanced so rapidly as in the present century. All branches, whether those for the comfort or convenience of man, for his luxury or necessity, seem to be moving on quickly to perfection; yet should man continue to improve his works to the end of time they would never be perfect.

Navigation and ship building have been advancing with rapid steps. Not only in the sailing qualities of vessels have improvements been made, but also in their convenience and safety. Ordinary sailing packets now sail between New York and Liverpool in from two to three weeks whilst fifty years ago a voyage made in a month was something very extraordinary. The introduction of iron as a material of ship building has been a great improvement. This however is chiefly confined to another class of vessels which I shall name presently. The ships of modern times differ very greatly from those of the ancient Greeks and Romans; which were mere boats, principally managed by oars, and about as shapeless and unmanageable as one of the flats used in our ferries.

But the greatest improvement of modern times in navigation is the introduction of steam as the means of propelling vessels. Previous to the year 1800 the power of steam was almost unknown, being only used for mining coal in some of the coal mines in England, but about this time Robert Fulton, an American, first proposed the theory of navigating by steam. He was hooted at as a madman, he was refused the use of the Congress hall (to lecture on the practicability of his theory) by that august body. He went to Europe but met with but little better success. He at last succeeded however in getting his theory put into practice, and it far exceeded his most sanguine expectations nor was it possible for the most capacious and imaginative mind to have anticipated the innumerable uses to which it has since been applied.

At the present day on every ocean and almost every important river on the face of the globe may be seen the smoke and steam from the steamboat whilst every civilized nation is with manufactories, the machinery of which is impelled by the same potent engine. And all this has come to pass in less than fifty years; what may we not anticipate from the next fifty? Is it not probable that before the nineteenth century shall have passed away that travelling through the air may be as common as travelling upon the water now is? Balloons have been in use for some length of time but have not yet been brought to such a degree of perfection as to be of any practical utility to mankind.

Range of 14,000 yards, nearly eight miles, and a trajectory 30 per cent. less than with any previous rifle bullet, has been obtained, experts of the United States Army say, with a new rifle bullet. Exhaustive tests of the bullet have just been completed.

The new missile obtains its efficiency from an entirely new method of rifling and abandonment of the long nose, used heretofore, which decreased air resistance but increased the bullet's trajectory.

In addition to the longer range, which surpasses anything obtained

fix for two years in advance the exact number of clerks and others and their salaries, without seriously impairing efficiency. Government work, the work of every other kind, must have elasticity enough to permit adjustment to changing conditions if it is to be economical and successful.

The attempt to prescribe rules and limitations minute enough to prevent in all cases incompetent or unfaithful officials from wasting the public money always has two results; in the first place, it fails entirely to make bad men good; and, in the second place, it ties good men down so closely that they cannot do good work. The worst managed and most wasteful bureau in Washington in my time, beyond all comparison, was that one in which the largest number of rules, regulations, and limitations had been established by law.

The proposed reorganization of the State Government in itself makes impossible any rigid, statutory, detailed subdivision of expenditures in the budget, for no one yet knows what the exact needs of the work in the reorganized departments will be. Moreover, more and better work can always be done for the money available if the executive has a reasonable freedom in adjusting expenditures to the actual needs of the work as they develop. The reductions in this budget can be made with far less inconvenience to the work of the State if a certain latitude, reasonable under all the circumstances, is granted to the Governor.

I ask that this may be done, and I promise not only that the next budget will report in detail precisely how the money has been used, but that monthly statements of expenditures, already made, or proposed to be made, will be open to any member of the Legislature (or to any citizen) who may desire to see them, together with full information as to just how and why the expenditures are made.

With these safeguards, I believe the Legislature will be entirely justified in giving me more room to turn around in than I would ask for under ordinary circumstances. The present circumstances are not ordinary, and the latitude I ask for will be almost indispensable assistance in bridging over the two lean years to which this budget applies.

In vital importance to all our citizens the school question yields to none. I must call to the attention of the Legislature the necessity for declaring a public policy as to the schools of this Commonwealth. There can be no effective policies until there are funds to meet those policies. Hopes have been written into the statute books without providing the monies necessary to meet them. The Legislature will have as one of its gravest problems the establishment of a policy as to schools that will square with money.

Every effort has been made to secure the largest possible provision for public instruction. It has been assigned far larger funds in proportion than any other comparable purpose. The appropriations to normal schools for this biennium for administration and operation was $3,705,000. This sum in the budget estimate, has been perforce reduced to three and a half million dollars, a reduction of six per cent. The amount appropriated by the last Legislature to meet the three payments to the common schools under the Edmonds Act was $22,583,500. I have been unable to find $21,000,000 for this purpose, a reduction of only about five per cent., as contrasted with a total reduction for all purposes of the State Government of 26 1/2 per cent. In the actual absence of funds sufficient to meet the full requirements of the Edmonds Act new provisions must be made for the subsidies to common schools. The Legislature might well consider whether the guiding principle in the school subsidy law should not be equalization on the basis of effort and ability to pay.

A declared policy as to our institutions of higher learning is likewise required. This State has lagged behind the standards set by other States in public support of higher education. There are three plans which the Legislature might consider: First, to build up a single great State University at heavy expense to the taxpayers for new buildings and equipment. Second, to use the equipment and buildings of the three colleges and universities with corporate donations to the State—the Pennsylvania State College, University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh. If this second policy is to be adopted there should be a clear understanding on the part of these three institutions that its adoption carries with it their becoming integral parts of the higher educational system of this Commonwealth. Third, to increase the subsidies to many private charities has been such as to indicate that this is not the wisest course.

The amount allotted for the National Guard is sufficient to keep the Guard up to the standard set by the National Government, and to secure which we are obliged to raise...

more heavily than is the case with any other similar Department. I offer this fact as an evidence of good faith.

The allotment for Highways is sufficient, with a reasonable contribution from the motor license fund, to secure the total possible Federal aid, to meet all existing obligations to counties and townships, and to repair and maintain the roads. In ordinary times the whole of the motor license fund would be used for road maintenance. In view of the present fiscal emergency, and considering that $83,500,000 has been spent on new construction within the last four years it is, wholly just and proper that about one-third of the motor license fund should be used to secure Federal aid monies, thus providing for additional new construction for the benefit of the owners and users of motor vehicles.

The allotment for the Delaware River Bridge is based on two considerations: First, that the bridge must be completed at the earliest possible date and second, that little or none of the two million dollar estimate for the condemnation of land will actually be required during the next two years. The present law forbids condemnation until funds have actually been appropriated. With this provision repealed, as it should be, and with all possible savings from other items in which the port of Philadelphia is interested added to the allotment for the bridge, I believe that the plan, for building the bridge will go forward as contemplated, and without delay.

The allotment for private charities is made in a single lump sum and is based on the assumption that aid to such institutions should be appropriated by the Public Welfare Commission strictly on the basis of services actually rendered. Since the private charities all have sources of revenue other than the State, it is right that, in the present situation, they should receive a less percentage of previous contributions than institutions wholly dependent on the State.

The institutions budgeted under the Department of Public Welfare submitted requests for deficits totaling $908,000. Many of the letters from the responsible officials of these institutions said in substance that larger sums had been requested from the Legislature; that these sums had not been granted; and that expenditures were therefore larger than appropriations. In other words, these agencies took the responsibility for fixing their own appropriations themselves without regard to the Legislature or the law. I believe that these deficit requests of $908,000 can be reduced to essential needs of about $600,000, and I have asked the Department of Public Welfare to examine each of these requests thoroughly. Bills covering these items would appear to be unnecessary now, but can be supplied at any time, if desired.

I do not ask for an increase in taxation, but on the contrary am fully prepared to carry on the executive work of the State for the sum in the Budget. The suggested reduction of one quarter in the appropriation from the General Fund does not necessarily mean a reduction in the amount or quality of the executive work of the State. If it did I would be entirely unwilling, at least in most cases, to recommend or even consent to it. But on the whole it need imply nothing of the kind. Sound economy, the elimination of waste, and better methods of administration generally can be made to bridge the gap. This statement is based on personal experience.

It is, I believe, well within the truth to say that between March, 1920, and June, 1921, the work of the Department of Forestry doubled in quantity and quality without increase in appropriations. That is the equivalent of saying that the same amount of work was accomplished for half the money. If such a result can be obtained in one Department by establishing good business methods, it is reasonable to believe, as I do, that on the average the work of the Commonwealth as at present carried on can be done, not with a reduction of one half, as in Forestry, but for one quarter less than the current appropriations.

As already pointed out, no uniform reduction has been made, but on the contrary every effort has been put forth so to distribute the reduction as to ensure the best practicable results for the Commonwealth as a whole. I cannot hope that the individual upon whose favorite project a given reduction bears will be pleased or satisfied, but I do know that the greatest good to the greatest number has been kept steadily in mind.

consistent with the good name of Pennsylvania to take our medicine if the coming two years and have it over, and I conclude by repeating that I do not ask for new taxes, but am entirely ready to undertake the executive work of the Commonwealth for the sum in the Budget herewith submitted to the consideration of the General Assembly.

WIFE OF HON. W. O. SMITH

Pennsylvania, Pa., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Hutchinson Smith, wife of W. O. Smith, editor of the Spirit, died at home here at 5:45 Saturday evening, after an acute illness dating from January 5th, in the sixty-third year of her age. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the late home, fourth floor, Spirit building.

Having spent the greater part of her life in Pottsville, Mrs. Smith won a warm place in the hearts of a wide circle of friends, many of whom, knowing only her radiant good nature and generosity, were unaware of the deeper traits of sympathy and sacrifice that were so many times revealed to her intimates.

Born in Martinsville, Indiana, April 18, 1860, Phebe Hutchinson Giggles is the daughter of Judge Algernon Giggles, a lawyer of distinction, who subsequently moved to Washington, D. C. She graduated at the University of St. Mary-of-the-Wood, at Elkhart, Indiana. On the 16th of January, 1880, she was married to William O. Smith, then in the government printing office, the marriage taking place in Baltimore. Four years later they came to Pottsville, which has been their home ever since, though their youngest child, born in Bradford, during a short visit when they resided there.

For two years past Mrs. Smith has had a noticeably weak heart, and on January 5 a stroke of partial paralysis befell her. Though she seemed to have some chance of recovery from this, hypostatic pneumonia developed, and unable to withstand the attack she soon succumbed, passing quietly away in the presence of her devoted family.

She leaves to survive her, in addition to her husband, four children, three S. Smith, Pierre L. Smith, Imogene, wife of O. D. Carlton, of this place, and Edward G. Smith, of Pottsville. A son Raymond, born after they came to Pottsville, died when not quite a year old. There are five grandchildren, and she also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Kate Aldridge, of Washington, D. C. and Mrs. George W. Grubbs, of Martinsville, Indiana.

Her dominating characteristics were her unselfishness, her joy in making others happy. She took little part in public or institutional charities; she had no liking for publicity; but to make some less-favored youngster or to her household, to inspire ambition, to help without the child's realizing that it was being helped, because it got only what she gave him—this was the satisfaction of her kindly nature—this was the outstanding trait that made her more than a good wife and mother.

The growth of her sons and her protégés to lives of usefulness, the honors that came to those who were nearest her must have been a source of great pride to her, but none of these made the slightest shadow on her simple and democratic walk and conversation. Until the end her first thought was always for others; and now, after a life of gentleness and joyful self-sacrifice, mourned by all who knew her, she journeys on the great quest content and unafraid.

"The Forgotten Law," a romance of retribution with a heart throb, at The Driggs Friday and Saturday.

Wisdom is Liberty. The United States is the only country where one can say offensive things about the executive and go unpunished, which may have much to do with the traditional sweetness of the American disposition, fermenting opinions of those in authority being promptly uncorked and as soon forgotten.

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks. But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way. A person half sick with a stomach dull and heavy, headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and turning sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity, and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills as the pills are with good health.

Evangelistic meetings convened in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church Sunday evening. The evening services will be continued as long as deemed advisable.

The winter was slightly in error last week on the statement of the Masonic and Sphinx Club rooms in the Irvin block. The Sphinx members, a number of whom are Masons, do not have any part or parcel in the social rooms. The rooms will be occupied by the Masons.

Some one started a report last week to the effect that Jim Richards had been arrested on a charge of bootlegging. There was not a scintilla of truth in the statement and Mr. Richards traced the story to its source and made the fellow admit that it was an untruth.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Frankhouser and family spent Sunday in Clearfield as the guest of Mrs. D. C. Monchberger, Mrs. Frankhouser's mother.

Dr. and Mrs. Quigley, of Clearfield, spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Humphreys' South Walnut street.

Robert Welch, of Lock Haven, spent the latter part of last week in the Karstetter home. Mrs. Welch is a patient in the Clearfield hospital undergoing medical treatment.

Myer Klavin, of Altoona, has been added to the clerical force at the Kantar store. He will have charge of the shoe department.

Mrs. Margaret Freeman came up from Clearfield Sunday and spent the day with her mother, Mrs. Albert Evans, on Bloomington avenue.

Messrs. Rafferty and Hepfer of Grampian, left for Akron, Ohio, yesterday, where they are plaintiffs in court suit to recover damages. It will be remembered that some few years ago three Rafferty boys and Mr. Hepfer were killed while out joy riding in an auto, the machine being struck by a city trolley car. Five of the party were killed and several others seriously injured. The trial has been hanging fire for several years.

Mrs. E. A. Spencer, after spending several years in Kentucky, has returned to her Grampian home.

George McClure, who has been working in Akron, Ohio, for some months, is home for a visit with wife and family and also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClure, on Ridge avenue.

Mrs. Leah, whose home is in Buffalo, was a Sunday visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Fleming. The lady is a cousin of D. R. Fleming.

The ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary have arranged for the holding of an afternoon entertainment and luncheon in the Legion rooms, corner of Filbert and Meadow streets on Thursday afternoon. A general invitation to the public is extended.

Height of Ocean Waves.
An authority says the height of the waves in a storm rarely exceed twelve feet, and in very bad disturbances on the high sea they may reach a height of fifty feet. Their length is never over 600 feet. In the southern parts of the Pacific, waves 43 feet in height have been measured, in the southern parts of the Atlantic 39 feet and in the Mediterranean 12 feet. At places where the waves strike at an object, such as a lighthouse, they rise, of course, much higher—from 150 to 200 feet. On the open sea, however, they never rise over 60 feet.

"FORGOTTEN LAW" COMING SOON

A powerful dramatic photoplay based on a novel of widespread appeal is "The Forgotten Law," the Metro photoplay which is scheduled for presentation on Friday and Saturday at the Driggs theatre. In its narrative form it aroused heated discussion, leading finally to the repeal of a law which worked terrible hardships on womankind. As a photoplay the dramatic emphasis is even more pronounced, and the motion picture is one of the strongest attractions of its kind in several seasons.

The title of the photoplay refers to an ancient law, carried on the statutes of many states in this country which enabled a father to will away his child from its own mother, to provide for its upbringing in whatever manner he himself desired. The cruelty of the separation between mother and child brought about thru the operation of this ruthless law is shown in all its tragic possibilities in this motion picture. A bitter quarrel, caused by the father himself, has a sudden culmination in the man's mysterious death. Unknown to the wife, the erring man has provided that their child be educated at the home of his brother, who can see nothing but evil in the innocent wife. Presentation of conclusive evidence successfully unites the separated family, and the surviving brother learns that he has been wrong in his persecution of his brother's widow.

A fine cast of film favorites is seen in this Max Graf production, including Milton Sills, Jack Mulhall and Cleo Ridgely.

"The Forgotten Law" was produced under the personal supervision of Max Graf. It was adapted by Joseph Poland, from Caroline Abbott Stanley's novel, "A Modern Madonna." It was directed by James W. Horn. Photography is by John Stumar.

"The Forgotten Law," at the Driggs Friday and Saturday, asserted the separation of mother and child.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

Eating too much meat may clog the kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged, and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Ordering by Sample.

A young woman entered a telephone office in an Ohio town and asked the operator if his line made connection with Chicago. On being answered in the affirmative, the young woman opened her bag, took out a bunch of samples and went to writing. After some difficulty she squeezed her thoughts into ten words and approached the sending table. She laid down the written blank, two samples, one marked "A" and the other "B," together with the sum of 25 cents. The message read: "Sellum and Sellum, Chicago. Send express, five yards sample 'A' and six yards 'B'."

Essen, Jan. 23.—One hundred thousand Ruhr miners are now on strike against French occupation mine owners announced today.

German industrial leaders again issued a proclamation calling upon workers to refuse to deliver coal to the invaders at the hour when Fritz Thyssen and six other coal owners were to go on trial.

More Westphalian miners joined the strikers today. Six Stinnes mines in the vicinity of Essen closed down because the French refused to hear workers on behalf of the six industrial leaders, who, it is reported, are to be sentenced to three months in jail.

The citizens of Essen were in an angry mood today, following the march of a French patrol to the heart of the city, pushing all pedestrians off the sidewalk.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—Germany notified the Allies today that it is doubtful if it will be able to pay any more reparations for the present owing to the economic chaos resulting from French occupation of the Ruhr.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes and Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the anti-narcotic division arrived here today for an investigation in Hollywood.

The officials will have a conference with Jesse L. Lasky for whom Wally Reid was working and then planned to visit a dozen other studios for conferences with a view of securing the fullest co-operation in stamping out the evil.

The drive to purge Hollywood of the drug traffic has already been launched. Half a dozen drug peddlers have already been arrested and along the Mexican border narcotics valued at more than $100,000 have been seized during the last ten days.

Ford's Nose Smashed In Run-In With Big FIVE TON TRUCK

A Henry Ford belonging to F. T. Bell, in charge of the repairs to the Clearfield Trust building, got its "bill" badly dented shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Bell was driving up Market street from the garage following close behind the big International truck of Moore Bros. the plasterers. As the truck neared the postoffice some fellow quickly backed his car out into the right-of-way.

The driver of the truck was forced to clamp his emergency on to avoid smashing into the car ahead. His truck responded quickly to the brake, but the close following Ford was not so lucky and banged right into the rear end of the truck. Before ranting into the truck the Henry was possessed of the usual prominent Ford nose but when the truck was eased off the little fellow it's snout was of the decidedly retreating variety, necessitating help to get back to the garage. Bell escaped personal injury but his feelings were a total loss. The truck was uninjured.

FIVE THOUSAND FRUIT EXHIBITS AT HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—With more than five thousand exhibits of fruit, vegetables and other farm products already in Harrisburg, with more than a hundred thousand square feet of exposition space available and with a score of meeting places engaged for the week, everything is in readiness for the Seventy Annual State Farm Products Show here, today.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture estimate that more than 50,000 persons will attend the show during the week. The big event on today's program is the mass meeting of all agriculturists organizations, this evening. Governor Gifford Pinchot will be the principal speaker and will outline his policies to the agriculturists.

Another feature of this evening's program will be a radio address to be delivered by Henry C. Wallace United States Secretary of Agriculture. The address will be delivered at the government wireless station at Arlington and will be received in the assembly hall here.

During the week a dozen agricultural organizations will hold their annual business meetings and will hear discussions led by the foremost men in all kinds of agriculture and who have been selected from all part of the country.

Judges of the hundreds of heads of livestock entered in competition in the show, as well as the fruit and vegetables, will be started today but it will be several days until the list of prize winners will be ready for publication.

County farm agents from sixty-five of the sixty-seven counties of the state have arranged to attend the fair show and each agent will be accompanied by a large delegation of farmers from his immediate section.

Appears In Person Before The House And Senate To Explain The Need Of A New Business Method

Budget He Presents
Calls For $89,446,115
Which is $28,000,000

Harrisburg, Jan. 23.—Governor Pinchot today presented to the General Assembly the first budget in the history of Pennsylvania.

Appearing in person before the assembled House and Senate, the Governor read a message, explaining the budget, which if put in force by the Legislature, will cut the expenditures of the State during the next two years by over 25 per cent.

The budget provides for an expenditure of $89,446,115 or $28,000,000 less than that provided by the 1921 appropriation.

In explaining the budget, Pinchot told the Legislature that the state will be faced June 1 by a net liability of $29,600,000.

His Message.

"I have the honor to present to you the first State Budget in the history of Pennsylvania. That I am able to do so is due first of all to the arduous, unselfish, and most effective work of Clyde L. King and his associates of the Citizens' Committee on the Finances of Pennsylvania. It is due also to the invaluable cooperation of Auditor General Lewis and the numerous other public servants (especially the accountants) who have rendered their generous assistance. I commend the report of the Committee, which summarizes their joint labors, to your special attention.

This Budget is based on the assumption that the expenditures of the Commonwealth must be kept within its income; that Pennsylvania must be made able and kept able to pay all bills on the nail as they fall due (which cannot be done at present); and that the good name of the State requires us to return to that position at the earliest possible moment.

There is now an appropriation liability of $85,697,000 for appropriations made by legislatures previous to 1921. Our unpaid debt on November 30, 1922, had reached a net total, after all appropriations not actually expended, encumbered, or inevitably necessary had been cut off, of $23,351,000. Add to this deficits recently reported of not less than $7,600,000 in accrued or accrued beyond the amounts appropriated, and subtract from it $1,000,000, the outside limit of current appropriations made but that may not be required, and we reach the unwelcome and disquieting conclusion that, on June 1st of this year, the Commonwealth will be facing a total appropriation liability, over and above income, of about $29,651,000. In other words, we have failed to live within our means by that large sum—we owe that much and must postpone payment. The above total deficit of $7,600,000 I estimate can be reduced by $945,000. This leaves a net liability of $29,006,000.

The Legislature of 1921 appropriated in round numbers $127,651,000, which Governor Sproul reduced by veto to $118,154,000. Of this amount, about $92,654,000 had not been paid out and was therefore a liability on November 30, 1922. Add to this $5,697,000 of liabilities from previous appropriation periods still unpaid, and also the minimum deficit of the present appropriation period of $6,655,000 and we have a total liability as of June 1st next of $65,006,000. It is believed that the total of appropriations uncalled for will be about $1,000,000. This leaves a net total appropriation liability of $64,006,000.

To meet this amount, the Auditor General estimates that there will be a cash income to the same date of about $35,000,000. Subtracting the

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—Physical and practical examination for drivers of motor vehicles is urged by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce as a means of lessening automobile accidents in Pennsylvania.

Ten recommendations for the strengthening of the Motor Vehicle Act have been approved by the Chamber and an effort will be made to incorporate the recommendations into a bill for the consideration of the State Legislature.

1. Giving the State Highway Department power to regulate licenses.
2. Requiring physical and practical examination of all applicants for drivers' licenses.
3. Eliminating necessity for sounding horns at all intersections, but making control of car at these points mandatory.
4. Making one classification for drivers.
5. A title provision to simplify issuance of licenses, owing to frequent change of ownership of cars.
6. Giving municipalities power to make ordinances providing fines or imprisonment for violation of traffic regulations.
7. Establishment in all cities of traffic regulations.
8. No change in speed limit law.
9. Establishing in all cities of traffic courts.
10. Requiring owners to maintain cars in proper and safe order.

money we shall have to meet our obligations from the obligations themselves—taking what we can pay from what we shall owe—we reach again the $29,006,000, the excess of expenditures over income. This is a debt which must be paid from future revenue.

The Auditor-General estimates the revenue from taxation in the general fund for the next two years at $117,000,000. Subtracting the $29,006,000 of unpaid bills, we find that $82,994,000 will, upon his estimate, be available for the expenses of the coming two years.

The Auditor-General is unable, he tells me, to submit detailed estimates of income for the coming appropriations period, but only a general estimate. In the absence of such detailed estimates, I am justified in accepting the opinion of the Committee on the Finances of Pennsylvania that, with the return of good times during the next two years, $3,000,000 more than the estimate of the Auditor-General, or a total revenue of $115,000,000.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 23. (U. P.)—The draft of the proposed Game Code combining in compact form the legislation governing the protection and taking of game which will be submitted to the Legislature this morning is now completed.

Officers of the draft have been sent to the officers of the Game Commission and to many prominent sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations for examination and possible suggestions.

Present legislation is incorporated in 17 separate acts and 25 amending acts, comprising 149 sections.

The new code has only 120 sections under 12 main articles. It was drawn up by the State Legislative Reference Bureau working in conjunction with the Game Commission.

The Code adheres closely to the old law with the exception of a few important changes. The principal change included in the Code are:

- Increasing the non-residence license fee to $15.00; changing the license period so that licenses will cover the trapping season; licensing fur dealers; protecting all buck deer until they have two or more points to one antler; protection of woodchucks during breeding season; increasing limit on bears for individuals and hunting parties; permitting closing counties to game of any kind; extending law relative to killing large game by mistake to all game; prohibiting sale of all game except rabbits killed in another state and the skins of raccoons and bears; establishing one special game fund in the state treasury instead of two.

Pittsburg, Jan. 22.—Police Lieutenant Schmotzer was shot and fatally wounded early today while attempting to arrest a man in a house on the South Side. Schmotzer died in the St. Joseph's hospital later.

Policeman Martin Milowski, who ran to Schmotzer's assistance, was shot in the hand. Policeman Milowski arrested Michael Glorek. He was wanted on a charge of having taken a revolver from a saloon. He will be charged with the murder of Schmotzer.

Miss Catherine Elzweiler is spending a week with friends in Philadelphia.

P. A. Hitt, former Chief of Police of Clearfield, who appears to have embarked on a career of "frenzied finance" after being fired off the force here early last year, has at last got himself into serious difficulty, the Moshannon National Bank of Philipsburg having made information against him this morning charging him with forging the names of his wife and father-in-law W. H. Pelton, Morrisdale, to a note for $260 which was given by Hitt to the bank as security for a loan of that amount.

Following Hitt's dismissal from the police force here he went to Philipsburg on a short visit and is alleged to have issued checks to the amount of more than $100 without funds in the bank to meet the checks when they were presented for payment. He was able to get the matter fixed up at that time.

Since then wherever he went, and he's been several places, he represented himself to be the chief of police of Clearfield and on the strength of that title or reputation is said to have succeeded in getting divers and sundry checks cashed. At any rate during the past several months numerous letters have been received here for the chief of police, asking Hitt to make good for checks he had floated and which were returned marked "no funds."

A trip to Lock Haven netted him $30, of which the Sheriff of Clinton county contributed $10 and a drug company the other $20 in cashing one of the checks. From Tyrone came a similar story, while shortly before Christmas Sheriff Dukeman of Bellefonte came to Philipsburg and had Hitt make good a "phony" $10 check he had got hold of.

Just after Christmas a Johnstown constable arrested Hitt at Philipsburg for issuing fraudulent checks and he was taken to Ebensburg jail, according to the story told by the constable on a recent trip to Clearfield. Managing to get out of the law's clutches some way or other, Hitt got back to Philipsburg about the first of the year and negotiated

Oliver Reed, of Lawrence township, aged about 45 years, was lodged in jail Monday on a serious charge, the information upon which he was arrested having been made before Justice Chorpennig by Burton Winor of the Second Ward.

The allegation made at the hearing was that Reed attempted to criminally assault the 13-year-old daughter of the prosecutor. The alleged assault occurred on a Saturday evening a couple of weeks ago. The little girl had been sent down to the Ashbaugh store on Ogden avenue. Reed was in the store when the child came in, but left before she had made her purchases. He was waiting outside for her when she left the store and stepping up to her said he would walk home with her. The little girl told him to go on about his business, that she was afraid of him. Reed followed the child and when she reached the alley on Spruce street, near the residence of Dr. Cowdick, he is alleged to have seized her and attempted to drag her into the alley.

The frightened child's screams attracted the attention of John Hancock and other men going to their homes and they ran to her rescue. When he saw he men running to the child's assistance Reed made his getaway. Chief of Police McClinton immediately began an investigation which resulted in Reed's arrest and he is now in jail awaiting trial.

Reed recently served a term in the penitentiary for a similar offense and is not believed to be "all there" mentally.

CHANGE IN FUNERAL NOTICE

Owing to difficult schedule, condition of roads and other difficulties, a change has been made in the funeral arrangements for Waring McDowell. It is now planned that the body will be taken from the morning train at Woodland and carried to Dales church, where services will be held instead of at Clearfield as at first arranged.

Musical Club Hears Operatic Selections Of Exceptional Merit

The fourth program of the Musical Club was given at Thayer's Auditorium on Monday evening, January 22nd. It was a program of operatic music and was one of the finest the club has ever given. Every number was excellently rendered, every performer was well-trained and perfectly at ease in his part.

An orchestra of nine pieces gave two selections, under the direction of Mr. Oscar W. Schaefer. They are all trained musicians, they played in perfect unison and the effect was very inspiring to the audience.

The rest of the numbers were vocal. Mr. Meredith's solo, "Prologue from Pagliacci," was excellently rendered—a selection well adapted to bring out the wealth and beauty of his voice. The piano accompaniment which is very difficult was played with great skill and expression by Mrs. J. M. Gallaher. The duet "Home to Our Mountains" from "Il Trovatore" by Mrs. M. S. Bowne and Mr. D. Way Powell was made especially effective by the gypsy costumes and the lighting. Their voices blended perfectly and they sang with great

His wife died in 1915, at the age of 80 years, and since that time he has spent most of his time with his daughter here. For several years he was unable to go about much owing to his legs being paralyzed, but he was much interested in present methods of travel, principally the automobile and the airplane, as compared with the old canal boat.

To Mr. and Mrs. Lingle nine children were born, eight of whom are living at various places throughout the state. He is survived also by 27 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

He was a member of the Disciple church. The funeral will be conducted from the home of his daughter on Allegheny street, Wednesday afternoon. Interment will be made at Blanchard.

So! Yields Abundant Crops.

In some of the island of the West Indies there are areas of cane which have yielded fair crops for twenty years without replanting. In Cuba the most progressive planters usually allow no more than five or six "retentions" crops, the fields being then replanted. The soil is so rich that rotation of crops has apparently not been found necessary.

Word From Headquarters.

"Where, where and how will the war end?" "I don't know," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "However, the young ladies and gents of the senior class of the village academy, several of whom are over sixteen years of age and have been outside of the county a time or two, are going to settle the entire question in a debate tonight. Understand, too, that while they are at it they will fix things so there will never be any more wars. So I shall be able to inform you in full tomorrow morning."

With No Opposition.

"I'm going to ask her to be queen of my home," said the enamored youth. "Yes," replied the cynic, "and she'll accept with the idea that the home is to be an absolute monarchy." —Topeka Star.

The loan with the Moshannon National Bank for which the forged note was given as security. The note was entered on record in Prothonotary Hall, and the bank here the day following its acceptance by the bank.

The alleged forgery was discovered by the bank people this morning and an investigation was at once made against Hitt, charging him with forging the names of his wife and father-in-law. A warrant was issued for his arrest and placed in the hands of a constable who went to Woodland, where it is said Hitt went to work on Monday, for the purpose of arresting him.

"I am writing to ask you why I have not received my allotment. His money was kept from him for the allotment which I never received."

"I have already written to Mr. Headquarters and received no reply and if I don't get one I am going to write to Uncle Sam himself."

"I ain't received no pay since my husband went away from nowhere."

"We have your letter. I am his grandfather and grandmother. He was born and brought up according to the law."

"You have changed my little boy to a man. And it makes any difference?" "Please let me know if John has a wife and children."

Fishing With a Worm.
To make the most of dull hours, to make the best of dull people, to like a poor job better than none, to wear the threadbare coat like a gentleman, to be outvoted with a smile, to hitch your wagon to the old horse if no star is handy—this is the wholesome philosophy taught by fishing with a worm. —From "Fishing With a Worm," by Bliss Perry.

Blankets and Comforts

Now is the time to buy Blankets and the ten per cent off our regular prices makes them an attractive buy. The same holds true of Comforts. Spend the rest of the winter in warmth and comfort. It makes for health and efficiency.

SHOES

We cannot attempt to enumerate the range of styles and quantity of our stock of serviceable and good looking Shoes. There are Shoes here in such a variety of taste that every need, from that of the plowman to the most elite dresser, can be filled. All sizes so we can be sure to fit you.

UNDERWEAR

Underwear is a seasonable article. Most people have some holdover suits from last year that is beginning to wear out and must be replaced. Buy now at ten per cent off and not only have the use of them this cold weather but get a good start on the next winter.

DRY GOODS

This will be the most popular department in the store. Our stock of Gingham, Percales, Muslins, in fact everything in shelf dry goods is right up to top-notch. You are invited to look over every piece we have. Remember that ten per cent off our prices makes real bargains.

HOSIERY

Stockings cause the average mother more worry than any other article of apparel. Those stockings you bought at the beginning of the school year are taking too much of your time in mending. Stock up now, not only on the children's needs but on hosiery for the whole family.

GLOVES

What more necessary thing is there in this climate than gloves. Man cannot work without warm fingers, neither can mother go out this winter weather without them. Johnny and Mary must have them for school. Our stock is complete. Call and see it.

NOTIONS

Under this heading comes everything not enumerated in the other panels of this advertisement. Ten per cent comes off of every item in the store when cash is paid when the purchase is made. Now is the time to buy those little things that you have needed so long.

Mrs. W. A. Daugherty was brought home from the hospital yesterday.

A Statesman Set Right.
Even those who pride themselves upon correct speech frequently use phrases that are either "impossible" or ungrammatical. A statesman said recently that "he did not belong to a certain club." "Belong!" Certainly he was not "the property, the appendage or the attribute" of the club. He should have said that he was not a member.—London Answers

When Plants Do Not Thrive.
Bury a small piece of beefsteak close to the roots, or lay a piece of raw potato on the surface of the ground near the roots. If there are worms around the roots, they will come to the meat or potato to eat, and may be easily removed.

AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The late G. L. Reed, one of the forward-looking, substantial pioneer citizens of Clearfield, who had much to do with the development of this community, had a vision of the future which was remarkable in view of present day accomplishments. In searching through some of his father's old papers the other day A. B. Reed ran across the following "composition," written by his father away back in 1844. The observation of three quarters of a century ago are interesting and we secured the ancient document for publication. It is worth a perusal:—

The Progress of the Arts.
In no age of the world perhaps have the arts advanced so rapidly as in the present century. All branches, whether those for the comfort or convenience of man, for his luxury or necessity, seem to be moving on quickly to perfection; yet should man continue to improve his works to the end of time they would never be perfect.

Navigation and ship building have been advancing with rapid steps. Not only in the sailing qualities of vessels have improvements been made, but also in their convenience and safety. Ordinary sailing packets now sail between New York and Liverpool in from two to three weeks whilst fifty years ago a voyage made in a month was something very extraordinary. The introduction of iron as a material of ship building has been a great improvement. This however is chiefly confined to another class of vessels which I shall name presently. The ships of modern times differ very greatly from those of the ancient Greeks and Romans; which were mere boats, principally managed by oars, and about as shapeless and unmanageable as one of the flats used in our ferries.

But the greatest improvement of modern times in navigation is the introduction of steam as the means of propelling vessels. Previous to the year 1800 the power of steam was almost unknown, being only used for mining coal in some of the coal mines in England, but about this time Robert Fulton, an American, first proposed the theory of navigating by steam. He was hooted at as a madman, he was refused the use of the Congress hall (to lecture on the practicability of his theory) by that august body. He went to Europe but met with but little better success. He at last succeeded however in getting his theory put into practice, and it far exceeded his most sanguine expectations nor was it possible for the most capacious and imaginative mind to have anticipated the innumerable uses to which it has since been applied.

At the present day on every ocean and almost every important river on the face of the globe may be seen the smoke and steam from the steamboat whilst every civilized nation is with manufactories, the machinery of which is impelled by the same potent engine. And all this has come to pass in less than fifty years; what may we not anticipate from the next fifty? Is it not probable that before the nineteenth century shall have passed away that travelling through the air may be as common as travelling upon the water now is? Balloons have been in use for some length of time but have not yet been brought to such a degree of perfection as to be of any practical utility to mankind.

Range of 14,000 yards, nearly eight miles, and a trajectory 30 per cent. less than with any previous rifle bullet, has been obtained, experts of the United States Army say, with a new rifle bullet. Exhaustive tests of the bullet have just been completed. The new missile obtains its efficiency from an entirely new method of rifling and abandonment of the long nose, used heretofore, which decreased air resistance but increased the bullet's trajectory. In addition to the longer range, which surpasses anything obtained from rifle-fire during the World War, designers of the new bullet say that accuracy has been decidedly increased, due to the almost flat trajectory. In actual firing tests made so far it has been demonstrated so many bull's eyes can be made over an equal range on a six-inch target as with the older bullets on a twenty-inch target.

Prefers to Sleep Some Other Way.

LAW IS MAKING GOOD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—"In trade experts editorializing New York Times, took the task for even suggesting a tariff had any effect what on export trade; says the of the Association, Hon. Bourne, Jr. "When the McCumber tariff bill was debated it was the contention of New York Times that the protection therein proposed would be coming to us in decrees—expert trade. Such a con was, of course, in direct op to the arguments of the in 1915-16."

following article from the Rey- ville Star headed "Real Sportsmanship," is one of the finest tributes that could be paid to the student body of the Clearfield High School and the townspeople who made the audience which witnessed the Clearfield-Reynoldsville game.

"A case of real sportsmanship was in evidence at the Clearfield-Reynoldsville game at Clearfield Friday. It was very hard to tell which team the Clearfield high school was cheering for. At one minute it was for Clearfield and the next minute for Reynoldsville. No one made any cutting remarks or said unkind words to any of the Reynoldsville people or players. Our players seemed in more prominence during the game than the home players, demonstrating their ability on the floor. After the game, which was full of 'pop' from start to finish, a dance was held for the entertainment of our team, and was very much appreciated by the Reynoldsville players, who have not always been accorded such treatment away from home. After the dance, they were taken to the 'Y' and they realized that any town not having such an institution had good cause for envy.

During the entire stay the Reynoldsville boys made use of the 'key' to the city, which was presented to Capt. Reddelick, and every minute was filled with excitement.

The following shows how the House and Senate members of Clearfield, Centre and Indiana fared at the hands of the appointing committee in the legislature.

Senator W. I. Betts, Clearfield—Banks, Canals, Congressional Apportionment, Exposition Affairs, Education, Forestry, Game and Fisheries, Health and Sanitation, Roads and Highways, Light, Heat and Water.

Workman Cash Grocery Company

History of the Workman's Cash Grocery Company and General Manager

Mr. George I. Thurston was born at Osceola Mills in 1874, moving from Osceola Mills to a farm in Boggs township when he was eight years old. His parents moved to Clearfield three years later where he has lived ever since with the exception of a few months. He went to school until he was fifteen years of age. He worked in the Clearfield tannery, brick works, railroad yards, in the Tucker coal mines in Hills—most of all the works around Clearfield. He helped dig post-holes, carry the posts and heavy timber to build the Clearfield Furniture Works.

He was married when about twenty-three years old. He has a wife and five children. He was working at the furniture works at the time of his marriage. About a year after he was married, he borrowed two hundred dollars from his mother-in-law and started a variety store in Mahanoy. He ran this store three or four months when he began to worry about being a success at business—he was afraid he might fail and could not pay back the borrowed money. He had an opportunity to sell which he did, paid the money back and came to Clearfield where he worked all winter for eighty cents a day. He paid twelve dollars a month rent, kept a wife and two children. They then increased the working hours from eight to ten hours a day, thus giving him an increase of twenty cents a day. Mr. Thurston says that he felt then as though he would not exchange places with John D. Rockefeller.

After working with the different works three or four years, he again got the idea that he had the ability to be a business man. He borrowed two hundred dollars from his wife, started a little grocery store on the corner of Daisy and Eleventh street. His wife did the clerking and he delivered the goods on a wheelbarrow. To keep his expenses down he could save fifty cents a month by having the telephone placed in his home instead of the store, and they would leave the doors of the store and house open so they could hear the telephone when it rang. They did a very nice business. Often when out pushing his wheelbarrow through Clearfield and different places, he says he would sit on the handle of his wheelbarrow and watch delivery wagons from other stores pass by and wonder whether he would ever be able to run a delivery wagon of his own. Finally he had the opportunity to buy a horse for forty dollars and a wagon for twelve dollars, which he studied upon for two weeks before making the purchase. He was absolutely sure then that he would not exchange places with the wealthiest man in America.

After about two years he got the Western fever and moved his family to Montana where he worked for the electric company for a short time and then elboked in a co-operative store, where he claims he got the idea of coming back to Clearfield and organizing a company. After going thru the Yellowstone Park he came to the conclusion that he had enough of the West and came back to Clearfield, bought his own store back again, that he sold to Mr. E. E. Fink. He ran this store about a year and then sold it to Walker & Gilliland, whom he worked for a little over a year, and then organized the stock company. They opened their first store in the Vulcan Trading Company building, in the Fourth Ward, February 1st, 1910. They had eighteen hundred dollars capital and their force consisted of a lady clerk at twenty dollars a month, a delivery man at forty dollars a month, and the manager's salary of one hundred dollars a month.

His brother-in-law loaned him an old gray horse to deliver goods, then a little later he wondered if he could be a little more up-to-date by having an auto truck. In the course of time this came and everything was very satisfactory until another idea came to him. You will notice that he delivered with a wheelbarrow, then the horse and wagon, and then the auto truck. Then the big idea came. "Can we run a grocery business and not deliver at all?" In 1913 they opened up the first cash and carry store in the Neveling building on Third street. A great many people thought Mr. Thurston had lost his mind entirely when they advertised they were going to run a cash and carry store, and the people would deliver their own goods, but this has worked out to their satisfaction which I think the progress of their company will speak for itself.

"The Brains Behind The Workman's Cash Grocery Store Idea"

In 1910 they did a business of about twenty five thousand dollars. In 1922 they about reached the million mark. At the present time they have sixteen grocery stores, one meat market, bakery, and warehouse, making a total of twenty places of business. Their stockholders are made up of railroaders, coal miners, doctors, lawyers, preachers, and in fact people of most all walks of life. This company was capitalized at the start with forty-five hundred dollars in 1910. They increased their capital from that to fifty thousand dollars, up to 1922—capital of paid up and had no stock for sale for over two years. About July 1922, they increased their capital to one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

Mr. Thurston says it is his intention to have a hundred stores under his management, which will save them all if they keep the same progress in the next few years that they have in the last.

When the company organized it was the understanding that they would pay no dividends for the first five years, but have their stock accumulate. In 1915 they started to pay dividends and have not missed paying dividends up to the present time.

Mr. Thurston says a great many people come to him and tell him that he deserves a lot of credit for the progress of the company. He claims he does not deserve the credit, but that it is the stockholders and the citizens of every community where they have a store who have helped to make a success of the Workman's Cash Grocery Company. Mr. Thurston wishes to thank the people in every community where their stores are for their local support.

The Workman's Cash Grocery Co. expects to celebrate its 14th Anniversary by having a special sale in all their stores, starting February 1st and running until Saturday, February 10th.

Tremendous Growth of Silk Manufacture in the United States

By G. P. Austin - Statistician
THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK
(From the WEEKLY BANK RECORD issued by The National City Bank)

The U. S. wants less than 1 per cent of its goods not home that the world produces in 1914, and at least it is a fact that the United States which American are still producing. The total value of goods produced in the United States in 1914 was four years after the close of the war, and as of 1900, war are nearly two and one-half times as much as in 1900. The latest full year's production of the silk goods in the United States was in 1914, when the value of the goods was $2,000,000,000, against a little over $2,000,000 in the year preceding the war, and while of course the 1922 figures are materially below those of 1920, the total value of silk manufactures exported in the calendar year 1922 is approximately six times as much as in the year preceding the war. Silk goods produced in the factories of the United States now go to over sixty countries and colonies, including considerable quantities sent to the countries from which we draw our raw silk, China and Japan.

The capital invested in the silk manufacturing industry of the United States was reported by the census of 1920 at $33,000,000, as against $210,000,000 in 1914, and $81,000,000 in 1900. The sum paid in wages in the silk industry in 1919 was $108,000,000, against $47,000,000 in 1914, and $20,000,000 in 1900.

This big increase in the outturn of our factories means that we are building up a considerable market abroad for the manufactures produced from this imported material. The value of silk manufactures exported from the United States in the calendar year 1920 was approximately $27,000,000 against a little over $2,000,000 in the year preceding the war, and while of course the 1922 figures are materially below those of 1920, the total value of silk manufactures exported in the calendar year 1922 is approximately six times as much as in the year preceding the war. fix for two years in advance the exact number of clerks and others and their salaries, without seriously impairing efficiency. Government work, the work of every other kind, must have elasticity enough to permit adjustment to changing conditions if it is to be economical and successful.

The attempt to prescribe rules and limitations minute enough to prevent in all cases incompetent or unfaithful officials from wasting the public money always has two results; in the first place, it fails entirely to make bad men good; and, in the second place, it ties good men down so closely that they cannot do good work. The worst managed and most wasteful bureau in Washington in my time, beyond all comparison, was that one in which the largest number of rules, regulations, and limitations had been established by law.

The proposed reorganization of the State Government in itself makes impossible any rigid, statutory, detailed subdivision of expenditures in the budget, for no one yet knows what the exact needs of the work in the reorganized departments will be. Moreover, more and better work can always be done for the money available if the executive has a reasonable freedom in adjusting expenditures to the actual needs of the work as they develop. The reductions in this budget can be made with far less inconvenience to the work of the State if a certain latitude, reasonable under all the circumstances, is granted to the Governor.

I ask that this may be done, and I promise not only that the next budget will report in detail precisely how the money has been used, but that monthly statements of expenditures, already made, or proposed to be made, will be open to any member of the Legislature (or to any citizen) who may desire to see them, together with full information as to just how and why the expenditures are made.

With these safeguards, I believe the Legislature will be entirely justified in giving me more room to turn around in than I would ask for under ordinary circumstances. The present circumstances are not ordinary, and the latitude I ask for will be almost indispensable assistance in bridging over the two lean years to which this budget applies.

In vital importance to all our citizens the school question yields to none. I must call to the attention of the Legislature the necessity for declaring a public policy as to the schools of this Commonwealth. There can be no effective policies until there are funds to meet those policies. Hopes have been written into the statute books without providing the monies necessary to meet them. The Legislature will have as one of its gravest problems the establishment of a policy as to schools that will square with money.

Every effort has been made to secure the largest possible provision for public instruction. It has been assigned far larger funds in proportion than any other comparable purpose. The appropriations to normal schools for this biennium for administration and operation was $3,705,000. This sum in the budget estimate, has been perforce reduced to three and a half million dollars, a reduction of six per cent. The amount appropriated by the last Legislature to meet the three payments to the common schools under the Edmonds Act was $22,583,500. I have been able to find $21,000,000 for this purpose, a reduction of only about five per cent., as contrasted with a total reduction for all purposes of the State Government of 26 1/2 per cent. In the actual absence of funds sufficient to meet the full requirements of the Edmonds Act new provisions must be made for the subsidies to common schools. The Legislature might well consider whether the guiding principle in the school subsidy law should not be equalization on the basis of effort and ability to pay.

A declared policy as to our institutions of higher learning is likewise required. This State has lagged behind the standards set by other States in public support of higher education. There are three plans which the Legislature might consider: First, to build up a single great State University at heavy expense to the taxpayers for new buildings and equipment. Second, to use the equipment and buildings of the three colleges and universities with corporate donations to the State—the Pennsylvania State College, University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh. If this second policy is to be adopted there should be a clear understanding on the part of these three institutions that its adoption carries with it their becoming integral parts of the higher educational system of this Commonwealth. Third, to increase the subsidies to many private charities has been such as to indicate that this is not the wisest course.

The amount allotted for the National Guard is sufficient to keep the Guard up to the standard set by the National Government, and to secure which we are obliged to raise...

more heavily than is the case with any other similar Department. I offer this fact as an evidence of good faith.

The allotment for Highways is sufficient, with a reasonable contribution from the motor license fund, to secure the total possible Federal aid, to meet all existing obligations to counties and townships, and to repair and maintain the roads. In ordinary times the whole of the motor license fund would be used for road maintenance. In view of the present fiscal emergency, and considering that $83,500,000 has been spent on new construction within the last four years it is, wholly just and proper that about one-third of the motor license fund should be used to secure Federal aid monies, thus providing for additional new construction for the benefit of the owners and users of motor vehicles.

The allotment for the Delaware River Bridge is based on two considerations: First, that the bridge must be completed at the earliest possible date and second, that little or none of the two million dollar estimate for the condemnation of land will actually be required during the next two years. The present law forbids condemnation until funds have actually been appropriated. With this provision repealed, as it should be, and with all possible savings from other items in which the port of Philadelphia is interested added to the allotment for the bridge, I believe that the plan, for building the bridge will go forward as contemplated, and without delay.

The allotment for private charities is made in a single lump sum and is based on the assumption that aid to such institutions should be appropriated by the Public Welfare Commission strictly on the basis of services actually rendered. Since the private charities all have sources of revenue other than the State, it is right that, in the present situation, they should receive a less percentage of previous contributions than institutions wholly dependent on the State.

The institutions budgeted under the Department of Public Welfare submitted requests for deficits totaling $908,000. Many of the letters from the responsible officials of these institutions said in substance that larger sums had been requested from the Legislature; that these sums had not been granted; and that expenditures were therefore larger than appropriations. In other words, these agencies took the responsibility for fixing their own appropriations themselves without regard to the Legislature or the law. I believe that these deficit requests of $908,000 can be reduced to essential needs of about $600,000, and I have asked the Department of Public Welfare to examine each of these requests thoroughly. Bills covering these items would appear to be unnecessary now, but can be supplied at any time, if desired.

I do not ask for an increase in taxation, but on the contrary am fully prepared to carry on the executive work of the State for the sum in the Budget. The suggested reduction of one quarter in the appropriation from the General Fund does not necessarily mean a reduction in the amount or quality of the executive work of the State. If it did I would be entirely unwilling, at least in most cases, to recommend or even consent to it. But on the whole it need imply nothing of the kind. Sound economy, the elimination of waste, and better methods of administration generally can be made to bridge the gap. This statement is based on personal experience.

It is, I believe, well within the truth to say that between March, 1920, and June, 1921, the work of the Department of Forestry doubled in quantity and quality without increase in appropriations. That is the equivalent of saying that the same amount of work was accomplished for half the money. If such a result can be obtained in one Department by establishing good business methods, it is reasonable to believe, as I do, that on the average the work of the Commonwealth as at present carried on can be done, not with a reduction of one half, as in Forestry, but for one quarter less than the current appropriations.

As already pointed out, no uniform reduction has been made, but on the contrary every effort has been put forth so to distribute the reduction as to ensure the best practicable results for the Commonwealth as a whole. I cannot hope that the individual upon whose favorite project a given reduction bears will be pleased or satisfied, but I do know that the greatest good to the greatest number has been kept steadily in mind.

consistent with the good name of Pennsylvania to take our medicine if the coming two years and have it over, and I conclude by repeating that I do not ask for new taxes, but am entirely ready to undertake the executive work of the Commonwealth for the sum in the Budget herewith submitted to the consideration of the General Assembly.

Pennsylvania, Pa., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Hutchinson Smith, wife of W. O. Smith, editor of the Spirit, died at home here at 5:45 Saturday evening, after an acute illness dating from January 5th, in the sixty-third year of her age. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the late home, fourth floor, Spirit building.

Having spent the greater part of her life in Pottsville, Mrs. Smith won a warm place in the hearts of a wide circle of friends, many of whom, knowing only her radiant good nature and generosity, were unaware of the deeper traits of sympathy and sacrifice that were so many times revealed to her intimates.

Born in Martinsville, Indiana, April 18, 1860, Phebe Hutchinson Griggs is the daughter of Judge Algernon Griggs, a lawyer of distinction, who subsequently moved to Washington, D. C. She graduated at the University of St. Mary-of-the-Wood, at Elkhart, Indiana. On the 16th of January, 1880, she was married to William O. Smith, then in the government printing office, the marriage taking place in Baltimore. Four years later they came to Pottsville, which has been their home ever since, though their youngest child, born in Bradford, during a short visit when they resided there.

For two years past Mrs. Smith has had a noticeably weak heart, and on January 5 a stroke of partial paralysis befell her. Though she seemed to have some chance of recovery from this, hypostatic pneumonia developed, and unable to withstand the attack she soon succumbed, passing quietly away in the presence of her devoted family.

She leaves to survive her, in addition to her husband, four children, three S. Smith, Pierre L. Smith, Imogene, wife of O. D. Carlton, of this place, and Edward G. Smith, of Pottsville. A son Raymond, born after they came to Pottsville, died when not quite a year old. There are five grandchildren, and she also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Kate Aldridge, of Washington, D. C. and Mrs. George W. Grubbs, of Martinsville, Indiana.

Her dominating characteristic was her unselfishness, her joy in making others happy. She took little part in public or institutional charities; she had no liking for publicity; but to make some less-favored youngster or to her household, to inspire ambition, to help without the child's realizing that it was being helped, because it got only what she gave him—this was the satisfaction of her kindly nature—this was the outstanding trait that made her more than a good wife and mother.

The growth of her sons and her protégés to lives of usefulness, the honors that came to those who were nearest her must have been a source of great pride to her, but none of these made the slightest shadow on her simple and democratic walk and conversation. Until the end her first thought was always for others; and now, after a life of gentleness and joyful self-sacrifice, mourned by all who knew her, she journeys on the great quest content and unafraid.

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way. A person half sick with a stomach dull and heavy, headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and turning sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity, and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills as the pills are with good health.

odist church Sunday evening. The evening services will be continued as long as deemed advisable.

The winter was slightly in error last week on the statement of the Masonic and Sphinx Club rooms in the Irvin block. The Sphinx members, a number of whom are Masons, do not have any part or parcel in the social rooms. The rooms will be occupied by the Masons.

Some one started a report last week to the effect that Jim Richards had been arrested on a charge of bootlegging. There was not a scintilla of truth in the statement and Mr. Richards traced the story to its source and made the fellow admit that it was an untruth.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Frankhouser and family spent Sunday in Clearfield as the guest of Mrs. D. C. Monchberger, Mrs. Frankhouser's mother.

Dr. and Mrs. Quigley, of Clearfield, spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Humphreys' South Walnut street.

Robert Welch, of Lock Haven, spent the latter part of last week in the Karstetter home. Mrs. Welch is a patient in the Clearfield hospital undergoing medical treatment.

Myer Klavin, of Altoona, has been added to the clerical force at the Kantar store. He will have charge of the shoe department.

Mrs. Margaret Freeman came up from Clearfield Sunday and spent the day with her mother, Mrs. Albert Evans, on Bloomington avenue.

Messrs. Rafferty and Hepfer of Grampian, left for Akron, Ohio, yesterday, where they are plaintiffs in court suit to recover damages. It will be remembered that some few years ago three Rafferty boys and Mr. Hepfer were killed while out joy riding in an auto, the machine being struck by a city trolley car. Five of the party were killed and several others seriously injured. The trial has been hanging fire for several years.

Mrs. E. A. Spencer, after spending several years in Kentucky, has returned to her Grampian home.

George McClure, who has been working in Akron, Ohio, for some months, is home for a visit with wife and family and also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClure, on Ridge avenue.

Mrs. Leah, whose home is in Buffalo, was a Sunday visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Fleming. The lady is a cousin of D. R. Fleming.

The ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary have arranged for the holding of an afternoon entertainment and luncheon in the Legion rooms, corner of Filbert and Meadow streets on Thursday afternoon. A general invitation to the public is extended.

Height of Ocean Waves.
An authority says the height of the waves in a storm rarely exceed twelve feet, and in very bad disturbances on the high sea they may reach a height of fifty feet. Their length is never over 600 feet. In the southern parts of the Pacific, waves 43 feet in height have been measured, in the southern parts of the Atlantic 39 feet and in the Mediterranean 12 feet. At places where the waves strike at an object, such as a lighthouse, they rise, of course, much higher—from 150 to 200 feet. On the open sea, however, they never rise over 60 feet.

"FORGOTTEN LAW" COMING SOON

A powerful dramatic photoplay based on a novel of widespread appeal is "The Forgotten Law," the Metro photoplay which is scheduled for presentation on Friday and Saturday at the Driggs theatre. In its narrative form it aroused heated discussion, leading finally to the repeal of a law which worked terrible hardships on womankind. As a photoplay the dramatic emphasis is even more pronounced, and the motion picture is one of the strongest attractions of its kind in several seasons.

The title of the photoplay refers to an ancient law, carried on the statutes of many states in this country which enabled a father to will away his child from its own mother, to provide for its upbringing in whatever manner he himself desired. The cruelty of the separation between mother and child brought about thru the operation of this ruthless law is shown in all its tragic possibilities in this motion picture. A bitter quarrel, caused by the father himself, has a sudden culmination in the man's mysterious death. Unknown to the wife, the erring man has provided that their child be educated at the home of his brother, who can see nothing but evil in the innocent wife. Presentation of conclusive evidence successfully unites the separated family, and the surviving brother learns that he has been wrong in his persecution of his brother's widow.

A fine cast of film favorites is seen in this Max Graf production, including Milton Sills, Jack Mulhall and Cleo Ridgely.

"The Forgotten Law" was produced under the personal supervision of Max Graf. It was adapted by Joseph Poland, from Caroline Abbott Stanley's novel, "A Modern Madonna." It was directed by James W. Horns. Photography is by John Stumar.

"The Forgotten Law," at the Driggs Friday and Saturday, asserted the separation of mother and child.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

Eating too much meat may clog the kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged, and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

JORDANS

Fashion Is Fashion at Any Age

Here are three charming frocks, each one making use of the season's most fashionable line, and each one becoming and attractive to its individual possessor.

Ordering by Sample.

A young woman entered a telephone office in an Ohio town and asked the operator if his line made connection with Chicago. On being answered in the affirmative, the young woman opened her bag, took out a bunch of samples and went to writing. After some difficulty she squeezed her thoughts into ten words and approached the sending table. She laid down the written blank, two samples, one marked "A" and the other "B," together with the sum of 25 cents. The message read: "Sellum and Sellum, Chicago. Send express, five yards sample 'A' and six yards 'B'."

The Higher the Lower.

"The Ayres occupy the street floor, understand. Do they associate with the people in the other apartments?" "No, indeed; they consider those who live above them beneath them."

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness—no struggling for breath at night. Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream to your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly. It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

Earth's Energy.

An eminent physicist has estimated that the power developed by a million Niagara in a million years would not equal the energy expended by the earth in a single second as it circles around the sun. And yet so perfect is the mechanism that, flying around its axis at an equatorial speed of more than a thousand miles an hour, and around its orbit at more than 1,000 miles a minute, all the mundane influences of which astronomers know could not change the length of its day as much as a second in a hundred years.

Origin of Money.

History does not tell us where the idea of money originated. The precious metals were employed in barter before the dawn of history. In the oldest ruins of civilized people bits of metals are found with an imprint of the ruler. They had banking three thousand years ago, when bills of lading were graven on bricks.
